Workshop Objectives

By the end of this workshop you most probably will...(!)

- have greater awareness of what constitutes drama activities and how these relate to teaching English as a second language
- have greater awareness of the benefits of using these activities in the ESL classroom
- have an appreciation of how to introduce drama into the ESL classroom
- work with some specific examples to use in the ESL classroom

Reflective Task

- What kind of activities could be classified as drama?
- 2. Why use them in the classroom?
- 3. When can you use them?
- 4. Who can use them? (what kind of learners and what kind of teachers would be suited to drama activities?)
- 5. Can you foresee any problems with using drama in the ELT classroom?

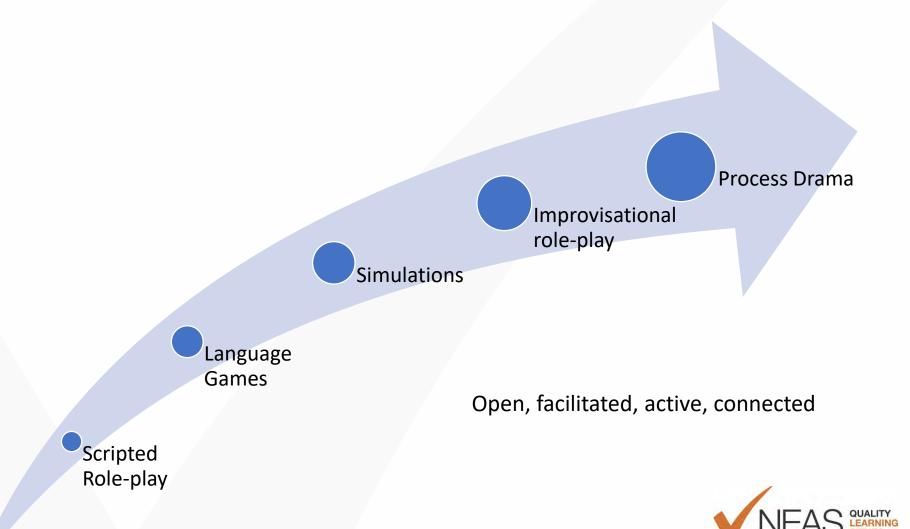

Benefits of Drama in ELT

- New contexts
- 2. Different roles, attitudes and perspectives
- 3. Democratic classroom relationships
- 4. Range of learning opportunities
- 5. Access to current cultural aspects

What is Drama in ELT?

What is Process Drama?

- A dramatic "elsewhere"
- Theme, situation or pre-text that challenges and interests participants
- Series of episodes, improvised, composed and rehearsed
- Time span that allows elaboration
- Whole group in same enterprise
- No external audience participants as audience
- Elements of drama focus, tension, space, mood, contrast, symbol and role

An Example of a Process Drama

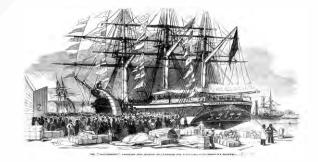

"The Gold Rush" Bowell & Heap (2001)
Planning Process Drama

Workshop 1: Victorian London in 1869, first hearing about the Gold Rush in Australia and making a decision to go on the journey

Workshop 2: On board the "Ballengeich", a storm at sea tosses a little boy overboard

Workshop 3: Sydney, Australia, finding gold

Some Process Drama Conventions

- Teacher in Role
- Mantle of the Expert
- Freeze Frames / Tableau
- Soundscape
- Improvisation

Teacher in Role

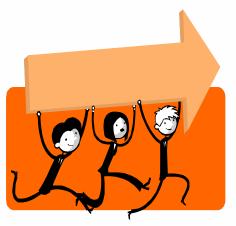

- Provide dramatic context in role in order to excite interest, control action, invite involvement, create tension, challenge thinking or develop narrative
- Use prop or special chair to denote when teacher in role

Mantel of the Expert

- Students assume role of expert in the drama to solve problem
- Teacher guides drama and provides encouragement to experts

Freeze Frames / Tableau

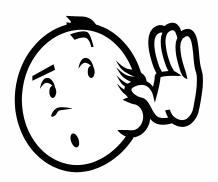

- Students use their body to make an image or a tableau, capturing a theme
- Students and teacher extract meaning through questions

Soundscape

- One member of the group acts as 'conductor', the rest as 'orchestra'
- Using voices and body percussion, the group paints a soundscape of theme, mood or place

Improvisation

- Spontaneous invention and development of drama from within the role
- Students act an unrehearsed scene co-written with partners without a script

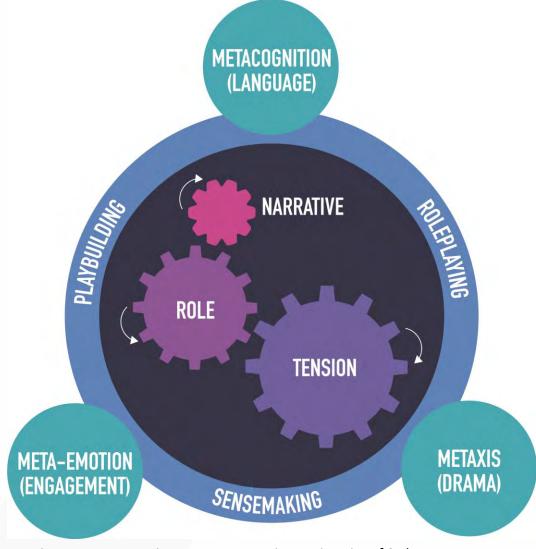

A + B Roleplay

A:	Hi, is anybody sitting here?
B:	No, have a seat.
A:	I'm Nice to meet you.
B:	I'm Pleased to meet you. Are you new around here?
A:	I'm in training at the moment.
B:	How are you finding it?
A:	It's difficult, but I'm enjoying it so far. What do you do?
B:	I work in the department.
A:	What are you responsible for?
B:	I plan, develop and conduct
A:	Wow!
